ABOUT THE PROJECT

BEFORE

St. Francis Learning Center Foundation, Inc. (SFLC) is a non-government, non-profit institution established by the Congregation of the Franciscan Sisters of the Immaculate Conception (SFIC) for the development of the Aetas, the Indigenous People of Zambales. The Aeta children come from different mountain villages located far from the Center at the foothill. Because of the distance, it is very difficult for the children to commute every day from their villages. The SFLC has built three houses to serve as dormitories for the children while at school. Three house mothers supervise the children's daily routine.

GiveBack GiveAway came in to supply the school with another classroom so this community could continue their way of life and also learn in a conducive environment.

We hired local workers to construct a new building 4 months in advance. Our team of 18 volunteers from 9 countries later joined to finished the final touches of the school, cleaned up the basketball court, splashed the walls with colors of creativity, and most excitedly install the school's first ever playground for the 100 impoverished kids.

After 3 days of, we hosted a super fun sport day and opening ceremony with the local kids. Seeing the smiles on their faces as they sprint to their new playground made all that hard work and sweat worthwhile.
